My sons Cub Scout leader couldnt even figure out where to sign off on things or tell me the requirements because this book didnt align up to his, or ANYONE elses in our den. Horribly, horribly disappointed and feel ripped off. It is indeed as described and complete, but be aware that it is not laid as optimized for either ebook reading OR as a duplicate of the printed book. It would have been nice if it would have been one or the other. The one thing i wish is that the page numbers on this one reflected the physical book. Other than that glad i purchased it. The other was an out dated blue version. Disappointed as I needed the books for my scouts. Now I am short one for my ceremony. Find out how to get them as well as why a leader should have an electronic copy. If you have the 2015 version of the handbook, you can download or print the addendum with the current requirements.

Electronic Versions of Cub Scout Handbooks People often search for a pdf or electronic version of the Cub Scout handbooks and the Webelos handbook. Im excited to tell you that BSA has made the handbooks and leader guides available in a Kindle version. If you dont have a Kindle, dont worry. There are free Kindle reader apps available for your tablet, smartphone or computer. Just click on over to Amazon to download them. Ive been reading Kindle books on my iPad for years. I love the fact that the new Cub Scout handbooks downloads are now available. As a Cub Scout parent, its great to be able to look up a requirement quickly. And as a den leader, you can make sure you've covered all of the requirements if you don't have your Cub Scout book handy. Whether you're a Lion, Tiger, Wolf, Bear, Webelos, or Arrow of Light den leader or parent, having the scout book handy is a great benefit. Now, I don't believe that these should take the place of the hard copy of the book for the Scouts, but it's great to have the information available at your fingertips. You can order the electronic handbooks by clicking on the images or the links below. They work great for protecting your child's handbook. Right now, use caution if you want to order the hard copies of the handbooks from Amazon. Most if not all of the physical handbooks being sold on Amazon are through third party sellers, and many of them are still selling the old handbooks. You want to make sure you get the new 2018 Cub Scout handbooks.

I was able to copy the Wolf handbook to my son's tablet, now he can read it anytime he wants and he loves that. Reply Sherry says September 28, 2013 at 947 pm What a great idea. I didn't even think about putting the books on the boys' tablets. Thanks so much for sharing. Reply Melissa Turner says October 21, 2013 at 434 am I believe that the above linked PDF for the Wolf Handbook is outdated. The hard copy handbook that we bought at the scout shop has many more achievements listed. Reply Sherry says October 21, 2013 at 1030 am Hi, there.

<http://apartmangyula.com/images/continuous-casting-machine-manual.pdf>

I just compared the online version to the copy that I bought for my son at the beginning of this summer, and I didn't see any differences. The version I have is copyright 2003 and is a 2011 printing. Can you let me know what the differences are. I want to make sure that what I have is correct. Thanks so much for letting me know. Reply Marc Samuels says January 15, 2014 at 708 pm Great resource that Unit Commissioners should forward to their units. Reply Sherry says February 27, 2014 at 310 pm You know, I never thought about someone like a COR or even a CM or CC who might need to look something up for a rank they don't work with. I'm going to share that idea on social media. Thanks for the heads up and for reading. Reply Sam says September 21, 2014 at 938 pm COR in Cub Scouts. Check the Guide to Advancement; there are no Courts of Review in Cub Scouting. Reply Sherry says September 22, 2014 at 229 pm Hi, Sam. By COR, we mean Chartered Organization Representative, not Courts of Review. Reply Pollyanna Eyler says April 9, 2014 at 834 am Thanks for posting the legitimate book links. Many at the Council office thought they were illegal until I showed them one that I had found on scouting.org but because of their url labeling system, I could never find the other Den books and had to resort to getting them from other Packs or Councils that had made private pdfs and I never felt good about handing those out to parents who can't afford books. Appreciate you sharing this, and passed it along to those in need. Reply Sherry says April 9, 2014 at 1030 am So glad it was helpful. Yes, I was a bit worried about that too, but since they were on scouting.org, I knew it was ok to share. I never want money to be the reason a boy isn't a Cub Scout, so thank you for passing this on. And thanks for reading. Reply David says September 24, 2014 at 847 am I can understand why BSA would want you to stop offering the pdf downloads. But, if the pdfs are available on Scouting.

org, I can imagine it would be all right to post links to those. Do you have links to those you can post for us CubScoutIdea fans Thanks. Reply Sherry says September 24, 2014 at 1118 am Hi, David. Thanks so much for being a fan. BSA has removed the pdfs from their site as well. Reply Jaimia says October 1, 2014 at 826 pm That sucks. I'm sure they raised a stink about your links and removed the PDFs from their site as well because it meant they weren't turning a profit from it. That is really selfish considering they have plenty of money for what they need, but there are so many families that struggle with the registration fees, pack dues, uniform expenses, and other activity costs, and yes, even the handbooks. Especially the parents with multiple kids. It can greatly affect a family's financial situation enough to just drop out of scouts altogether. But BSA doesn't care about all that. They just want to keep getting rich. We just put our son into scouts and I hope my personal opinion and wallet don't make me change my mind later. Jess W. Speaker, III says April 27, 2015 at 1232 pm It was nice to be able to print a 8.5 by 11 copy of the book. It was easier for my son to read and also nice for teaching from. Sarah says June 27, 2014 at 1259 pm This is so helpful. Thank you for posting. Reply Sherry says June 29, 2014 at 1154 am You're welcome. Reply April says July 16, 2014 at 825 pm bear handbook pdf and wolf links do not work english Reply Sherry says July 17, 2014 at 251 pm Oh, my. Thanks so much for letting me know. I talked to someone at the national BSA office, and I don't we're going to get them back. But I'll keep an eye out just in case we do. Reply Sherry says July 26, 2014 at 724 pm Fortunately, I was able to find copies of the handbooks. They'll only be used until next May, but hopefully, having them online will help your families this year.

Reply Vicki says September 6, 2014 at 853 am Do you think they will clearance out the old books for anyone who might want to use them for personal or supplemental purposes Reply Vicki says September 6, 2014 at 854 am Thank you for these links. I am glad to be able to have them on my kindle for those times when my son can't remember where he put his book and we have to go to a meeting! Mama doesn't lose her Kindle. Reply Joel Sager says September 22, 2014 at 719 am This is unfortunate, I use these as a resource for planning purposes, I always buy the manuals but I find them much easier to search in PDF format. I wish they would reconsider having them online. Reply Sherry says September 22, 2014 at 221 pm I agree, Joel. Maybe they'll make them available to purchase as a pdf or ebook. I have two kids a cub scout and a daisy. Between working 6 days a week and coming home to a mess, I've needed to purchase a second handbook chronically. This year I only have the one so far, but I found out Wednesday it has gone missing. Going into this morning I couldn't find the Bear Handbook and NEEDED it no stores are open. You are our hero! Reply Stan says October 5, 2014 at 617 pm Jaimia, spend your time with the local council and the pack or troop and you'll know how silly it is to say the BSA is rich. If the organization had as much money as you think, the kids wouldn't have to sell popcorn or run other events to raise money. It costs a lot to support a scout, and as the events get bigger camping, boating, etc. they go up. I spend a lot of time as a den leader and in other local pack committee roles. The parents that actually care about these kids know how much it takes, and many of us spend additional money outside of standard costs. Local councils also have plans in place for families in need. No boy should be unable to take part because of financial hardship. But unless you step in our shoes don't assume what you don't know.

Reply Joan says September 13, 2016 at 323 pm I have to say this, my father contacted me about a district eagle award he had received. This was awarded to him for some reason by the council. Reply Angela K says June 10, 2015 at 1210 am Thanks for the tip about downloading the handbook to the boys' Kindles. Great idea!! Reply Karla says August 8, 2015 at 908 pm I am the Cub Master of our group. I have searched Pinterest on many different sites and for many different reasons. I like the set up of your site. Would you be willing to help me set up a site for my group Thanks. Karla Reply Sherry says August 12, 2015 at 853 pm Send me an email with more of what you want to do, and we'll talk further. Reply David Wilkinson says August 19, 2015 at 156 pm Do you guys know if the kindle version is searchable. Reply Sherry says August 24, 2015 at 840 pm Yes, it is. And another cool thing is that you can take notes too. Then when you read back through the book, you'll see a little box where your notes are. Reply David Wilkinson says September 1, 2015 at 1101 am Even though I have the new physical book for each rank, I just purchased the Kindle version for the Tiger and Bear. Pretty decent, not GREAT. I do like that I can copy from the Kindle PC application and paste into Word. That was helpful the other day while putting together some materials for our new Parent orientation. I think the hard copy is still the way to go for our boys but the Kindle version is great for leader reference. Reply Scott says September 14, 2015 at 440 pm Bummer that the Handbook PDFs aren't available and they have opted to go Kindle only. I really don't like the Kindle app. I found it useful to have all the books as PDF to reference when planning Pack activities. It is possible to get the info other ways, but not as easy. We still buy hard copies and hand those down, but they get a bit worn after a couple years.

The new Den Leader Guides ARE available as a PDF, but requires some extra hoops to jump through. Each Adventure has to be downloaded separately. This is still good, because my hardcopy of the Webelos Leader Guide is missing some pages, and the issue is corrected in the Learning Library PDFs. Reply Ranae Hawkins says May 5, 2017 at 1032 pm Useful analysis, I was enlightened by the details. Reply Matt says December 8, 2017 at 729 pm These electronic book versions are useless because they do not coincide by page number with the paper books. So when the scout leader who always has a paper book says do page 27 or refer to page 32 we are always lost. I love the idea of electronic versions but as it stands still have to use paper. Please try to make them 1 for 1 and add page numbers for the next version so its actually useful. But did you know that the Cub Scout handbooks are available online as a PDF document you can download. If you haven't purchased the handbook for his next rank, read my article 4 Reasons Why You Should Buy Your Cub Scout Handbook in the Summer. Or you can always download the handbook. If you haven't bought the next rank's book, you can download a pdf version of it. They receive a gold Arrow Point for completing 10 electives. Well, there's more great news. The handbooks are available in an electronic version. If you haven't bought the next rank's book, you can download an electronic version of it. They're perfect for handbooks. For some items, the policy statements are complete. Unit leaders are expected to review the additional reference material cited prior to conducting such activities. In addition, it provides the ability to set up calendars and reminders to parents for events and activities. Details on what to do before, during, and after meeting along with the resources you need to deliver the program right at your fingertips. Once you are registered, you or another leader can set up who is in your den and off you go! The Cub Scout Adventure survey provides critical data to help guide the program. Most packs provide this at Pack Meetings. The National Den Award may be earned only once in any 12month period charter year or calendar year, as determined by the pack committee. The scout receives a Wolf Scout handbook, Wolf neckerchief, and Wolf neckerchief slide when beginning the Wolf portion of the boy scout trail. The scout will also need a blue Cub Scout Uniform. This part of the boy scout trail is intended to take one school year, preparing the scout to begin earning the Bear rank after completing second grade. How to Join Go to BeAScout.org Click the Cub Scouts tab. Enter your zipcode and click the arrow button. Click on a Pack near you to see its contact info so you can call the Pack or your local Council about joining. Complete a BSA Youth Application and Health Record and give them to the Cubmaster of the Pack you choose. Your Wolf den will have opportunities to participate in Pack meetings. Prepare your scouts by having them ready to perform a couple of Skits and lead the pack in some Games. By having a Wolf favorite ready, your scouts will look good, have fun, and increase their confidence through leading the pack. Tip Choose 2 skits and games before September and do them at your first den meeting. Dont wait until your Cubmaster calls on you for a skit. Tip Many packs award the Wolf badge at their BlueGold banquet in February.

If you begin your Wolf program in September, this means you have less than 5 months to complete the Wolf requirements. You should plan out what requirements your den will do and make a schedule so everyone knows what is expected. A calendar kept up to date helps families keep track of their scouting commitments. Wolf Advancement Wolf Scouts do adventures described in their Wolf handbook that advance them towards their Wolf rank. By completing seven adventures, the Wolf rank is earned. Akela is responsible for acknowledging completion of each adventure requirement by signing and dating the appropriate spot in the Wolfs handbook. There is also a spot for the Wolf Den Leader to sign for each requirement. The Adventure Tracking pages in the back of the Wolf handbook can be used by the Wolf to track progress all in one spot, and some dens use advancement charts or den doodles to publicly display advancement. A Wolf that has fulfilled all rank requirements still has a lot more adventure waiting. The scout can continue to complete elective adventures with Akela or his den, or at district and council hosted events. Some scouts set a goal to earn the remaining dozen adventure belt loops before moving on to a Bear den. Wolf Den Leader An energetic, organized, and supportive Wolf Den Leader is critical to the success of a Wolf Den. The Den Leader plans the program of activities for the year and makes that plan available to all den parents. The Den Leader should enjoy the outdoors and be a strong advocate for getting youth outside and active. A wellrun Wolf den gives each scout a chance to work on leadership skills in small but meaningful amounts. The Denner position is a great way for individual scouts to practice leadership for a short time. The Den Chief is a Boy Scout that has volunteered to work with a den in order to practice leadership skills and be a role model for younger scouts.

The Den Leader is responsible for training and assisting a Den Chief, if the den has been assigned one. Wolf Den Leader is a registered volunteer BSA position whose responsibilities are Work directly with other den and pack leaders to ensure that their den is an active and successful part of the pack.

Plan, prepare for, and conduct den meetings with the assistant den leader and den chief. Attend pack leaders meetings. Lead the den at the monthly pack meeting and pack activities. Ensure the transition of youth in the Wolf den into a Bear den at the end of the year. Keep accurate records. Help the den earn the National Den Award. There are many resources available to help the den leader plan and run a successful, interesting program for the scouts. The Wolf Den Leader Guide is the most important one. It has complete den meeting plans for each adventure and many ideas for activities that promote the purposes of Cub Scouting. This guide takes much of the planning burden off overextended volunteers. Tip Remember that the Cub Scout motto of Do Your Best is central to the program. There is no level of competence or skill required to complete adventures. Putting in personal effort and having fun with fellow scouts is success. As the Tiger program was completely family oriented, so the Wolf program relies heavily on family involvement. You will see this gradually change with the scout doing more with the den and more individual direction as the scout reaches Webelos and Boy Scouts. Tip Many available Awards go unused, especially by Wolf and Bear dens. Learn about additional awards offered to your scouts such as the World Conservation Award and Outdoor Ethics Award and consider working them into your schedule especially in the spring and summer months. This information is intended to make wolf cub scout dens more productive and interesting for the scouts. A cub scout at the wolf level needs a lot of activity made up of short, interesting games, projects, and challenges.
